WORCESTER PORCELAIN MUSEUM

The venue Henry Sandon MBE, of 'BBC Antiques Roadshow' describes as being his 'Ideal Day Out!', – be guided by audio tour through the Georgian, Victorian and 20th Century Galleries. Each Wednesday skilled conservators work on museum archives in the gallery and on Thursdays and Saturdays visitors can see an ex Royal Worcester artist in residence hand painting

All offers include a personal welcome from a member of the Museum team, reservation of the audio tour handsets for your guests and an opportunity to experience the wonderful history of one of the most famous porcelain manufacturers in the world.

Your group will learn about the start of production in Worcester in 1751, why the factory was located in the historic city and what made Worcester Porcelain the most sought after brand. They will also be introduced to the ceremony of tea drinking, discover how production and design developed over the centuries, learn about world events and the many famous customers who visited the factory as they travel through the exquisite Georgian, Victorian and 20th Century Galleries.

Please see over for details.
